

Student Learning Outcomes

NURS 003A PERINATAL NURSING

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- 1 The student will be able to integrate, correlate, and apply scientific theory in the care of the maternity and newborn patient that meets the standard of nursing practice.
- 2 The student will be able to demonstrate competency in the nursing process, including performing a safe patient assessment, establishing specific and appropriate expected outcomes, planning/ implementing effective nursing interventions, and evaluating pati
- 3 The student will be able to demonstrate the ability to perform a nursing assessment on a maternity and newborn patient safely and in a timely manner, explaining rationales for performing specific components of the assessment.
- 4 Exam, student project (Interview of a Pregnant Woman, Maternal Outreach Project), written exercise (nursing care plan), skill demonstrate during roleplaying exercises, skill demonstration during clinical rotation at hospital.
- 6 The student will be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of medication preparation, calculation, and administration; nursing procedures; and treatments for maternity and newborn patients, adhering to principles of safety.

