Refund Policy: If a class is canceled, we keep the fees in your account so they can be credited to another class. Refunds are issued only upon student request, and are subject to a transaction fee – equal to the amount PayPal initially (and non-refundably) charged us to process the fees now being refunded ... we can absorb those paypal payment processing costs as long as those payments and go towards class fees. And now, with the advent of Zoom recordings, students can apply tuition credits not just to upcoming classes, but to enroll retroactively, and “attend” a class by viewing it (some classes may not be
