

Lead Edible Maintenance Gardener

Homestead Design Collective, a San Francisco Bay Area landscape design firm specializing in aesthetic edible and low water gardening, is looking for a Lead Edible Maintenance Gardener. The position is full-time 40 hours per week. Pay is $26-27 p/h.

SKILLS:

- Working knowledge of growing organic vegetables and fruit in the Bay Area climate, succession planting, harvesting, soil prep, and organic pest control and fertilizers
- Familiarity with in-ground and raised bed irrigation systems (drip and micro spray) and commonly used irrigation system timers
- "Can-do" attitude and willingness to pitch in wherever needed; we are a small but highly efficient company where we all wear many hats
- Friendly and respectful attitude; you will be interacting with clients with a range of needs and knowledge of organic gardening
- Ability to work alone, and as part of a crew
- Basic writing and computer skills to write follow up emails to our clients and record detailed notes using Google Docs

EXPERIENCE AND REQUIREMENTS:

- 2+ years organic farming and/or gardening experience, fine gardening experience a plus
- Must have a valid CA driver's license and regular access to a working vehicle (we are based in the East Bay, but have clients throughout the Bay Area)
- Working cell phone (smart phone/iPhone a definite plus)
- Computer/laptop (for access to documents that are difficult to view/edit on a mobile device)
- Ability to lift 45 lbs.

Please submit your name, contact info, work history and job experience as it relates to the desired skills listed above to hello@homesteaddesigncollective.com. Please be ready to provide references.
