Access Databases & E-Books From Home

You can access databases and e-books from home! Simply navigate to the database or e-book page on the library website and enter your name and faculty/student ID when prompted. You can also download e-books to read later or on other devices. Faculty and staff: Please come to the library to ensure your account is setup for remote access.

Merritt Library is now on Twitter! Follow us at @MerrittLib for important news and information.

Announcing the E-Reader Program

We now have e-readers available for 2-hour checkouts for use inside the library. Bring your student ID to the Reference Desk and check one out to read books, PDF documents, and browse the web. Sample titles include: Created Equal, People's History of United States, and Think: American Government. Contact Timothy Hackett for more information: thackett@peralta.edu

Collections

Reserve Textbooks

The Library maintains a reserve collection of textbooks, study guides, workbooks, laboratory and solution manuals, audio-visual media, course packets, and other course-related materials for students to use in the library.

Periodicals & Databases

The Library subscribes to over 90 print magazines, journals, and newspapers that cover a variety of topics and interests. Even more periodicals can be found in full-text through the databases on our website.

Reference & E-Books

The Library's reference collection contains items like encyclopedias, dictionaries, and atlases. In addition, we maintain a large collection of e-books on many subjects. See a librarian for help finding and accessing reference and e-books.
